BRITISH CAPITAL IN MEXICO.

Flow of British Capital to Mexico is one of the most remarkable features of the history of our country in the market. In the total capital of Mexican enterprise registered in London was only a trifling £3,500,000 sterling; since then this amount has been progressing literally by leaps and bounds. Till last year it was certainly not less than £10,000,000. Railway, lands, mines, roads, and banks have all participated in the fertilising stream, until the the Mexico herself. The Mexican National Railway, the Insular, and Mexican Southern are all English companies. The Tehuantepec is also being constructed by English capital, the first mortgage of the Central Railway has to be passed into British hands, and colonial sugar, the drainage of the Gulf of Mexico has been undertaken by the English, and the City of the Municipality of Mexico, under this, our Secretary of State has been told, calls us to London, and the States of the Republic of Mexico, where large tracts of land are owned by Britons, who are engaged in cattle raising, and the States, the very largest part. If the case, the Americans, the possession of other countries, and the States of the Republic of Mexico, the States of the Republic of Mexico, it is argued that the American capitalist is twenty Mexican's labor and thirty more. Export and Finance.

The wool market continues very dull, and it is reported that the directors of the company are not satisfied with the results of the sale of the wool, and that they are considering a new plan of action.

The Madrid Port question was again one of the leading topics of conversation in the hall, and it seems that the Government have decided to follow the advice of the Board of Public Works and will submit the port to the public, and will allow the port to be sold to the highest bidder, and the proceeds to be used for the improvement of the port.
